

ED. NOTES

Question: How to split transmit and receive frequencies like on the Ranger AR-3300?

Answer: Cheapest way is to buy the Ranger! If you want the flexibility of frequency/mode/power and programming. (BW, I personally have split up to 1.5MHz on the Ranger and encountered no problems....)

OR, dust off the old units that needed separate crystals for transmit and receive. Figure out your frequencies, and you got it. Problems with this is the fixed Fo's; and as sure as the sun will rise some A..-hole will find out the frequencies; then will move in on top of you!

Again, buy the Ranger - put all the troubles behind you!

AGAIN; - Don't call in information, put it all on paper. See page 25 this volume.... COPY and USE IT; PRINT....

Bits of information sent in pieces of paper are always getting mis-placed, incomplete information on them, and not enough data to contact originator.

When I do contact anyone for clarification of information, don't forget to send all correspondence back that I send. If I haven't received it within 3 weeks of sending it off, all information is permanently filed in #13.

Volume 28 - Yes, I do look ahead a volume at a time. The main reason for hold up on volumes is lack of information/units.

I sometimes get ahold of units to 'play with any way that I want' and turn out some pretty hairy units... One-of-a-kind type modifications that only could be wrote up on about 6 pages! These type only have about 2 pages printed on them, as is really going into the realm of personal preference and very complicated work/craftsmanship.

#28 will have as many modifications as possible on converting over units to the new 28.3-28.5MHz HAM Band. These will not be long drawn out write-ups; but will be for the "Professional Tech" type of information.... Hams, hold on a while and will have it in print for you!

People are always asking/requesting certain parts/data, and wanting immediate shipment by 'Honor Billing'! (Honor Billing; is based upon trust of payment upon receipt.) IT DOESN'T WORK!

I have 'Honor Billings' scattered from N.Y. to Calif.—and even Hawaii; but no more! For this reason have discontinued practice, and require SASE for answering letters requesting information.

NOTE: Friends 'South-of-the-Border, and Europe; business as usual...haven't been 'stiffed' in over 7 years!